

The Radiological and Medical Physics Society of New York

RAMPS 1948 – 2014

The Earliest Organization of Medical Physicists in the United States

History of RAMPS

During the mid 1940's, physicists associated with medical institutions in the metropolitan New York City region commenced meetings to compare instrumentation and their measurements of the quantity of radioactivity in solutions in medical use. This was necessary for uniformity, and also for accuracy since the national standard available appeared to be inconsistent. This was just prior to the availability of megavoltage x rays and electrons, and the primary concern of the physicists was associated with the uses of radioactive nuclides. The clinical uses of iodine-131 and other radionuclides (phosphorus-32, yttrium-90, etc.) were being actively explored and agreement on the amount of activity being administered was essential. Such measurements led to the "New York Millicurie," which served a vital purpose.

By 1948 the meetings of these medical physicists were on a scheduled basis with elected officers and records. Those initially active in RAMPS included Mones Berman, Hanson Blatz, Carl Braestrup, Giacchino Failla, Sergei Feitelberg, Elizabeth Focht, Hiram Hart, Lillian Jacobson, Robert Loevinger, Leo Marinelli, Eleanor Oshry, Edith Quimby, Edward Siegel, Aaron Yalow, Rosalyn Yalow, and others. This group established the measurement procedure for the "New York Millicurie," and their meetings served both scientific and professional functions. A constitution was written in 1954 by R. Yalow and J. Laughlin, and revised in 1957 by them. RAMPS has continued to grow from its modest beginning to a current membership of about 150 and conducts monthly meetings which are well attended. Their meetings usually include scientific presentations by a member or guest on physical aspects of treatment, diagnosis, nuclear medicine, or protection. Also, a symposium on a pertinent scientific topic is held annually. RAMPS welcomed the initiation of the AAMP and became a chapter in it.

John Laughlin became the President of AAMP

In 1968, in order to assist the training of residents in the various radiological physics specialties, RAMPS appointed a committee to prepare an examination on radiological physics. This examination was administered on a voluntary basis to radiological residents in the New York City area at a session held at the New York Academy of Medicine with the cooperation of the New York Roentgen Ray Society. The response was so enthusiastic that this examination has become an annual event. It is now being used throughout the United States through the courtesy of RAMPS and of the AAMP. In recent years, separate examinations for Diagnostic Radiology and Radiation Oncology have been produced. Teaching has always been an important activity of the medical physicist in his/her institution and the establishment of this examination procedure was a method of assisting the education of residents in the physical aspects of radiology.

Major Awards to RAMPS Members

AAMP Coolidge Award
John S. Laughlin	1974
Edith E. Quimby	1977
Lowell L. Anderson	2000
C. Clifton Ling	2004

AAMP Quimby Lifetime Achievement Award
Lawrence N. Rothenberg	2007
James M. Galvin	2008
Lawrence E. Reinstein	2009
Howard I. Amols	2014
Edward L. Nickoloff	2014

Marvin MD Williams Professional Achievement Award
John S. Laughlin	1992
Edward L. Nickoloff	2008

AAMP Officers from RAMPS
President John S. Laughlin	1965
Lawrence N. Rothenberg	1998
Howard I. Amols	2005

Secretary
Jean M. St. Germain	1985

52nd Anniversary of the Failla Memorial lecture

RAMPS, in conjunction with the Greater New York Chapter of the Health Physics Society, holds the Annual Failla Lecture. The lecturer is an internationally known expert on Medical Physics and/or Radiation Protection. This year's lecture presented by David W. O. Rogers marked the 52nd Anniversary of the Failla lecture, which honors the memory of Dr. Failla, a Medical Physics pioneer. Other Failla lecturers over the past 8 years are:

- ♦ Antone L. Brooks, Ph.D. 2013
- ♦ C. Clifton Ling, Ph.D. 2012
- ♦ Michael T. Ryan, Ph.D. 2010
- ♦ Radhe Mohan, Ph.D. 2009
- ♦ Lawrence N. Rothenberg, Ph.D. 2008
- ♦ John R. Cunningham, Ph.D. 2007
- ♦ William F. Hanson, Ph.D. 2006
- ♦ John D. Boice, Ph.D. 2005

RAMPS VACIRA YOUNG INVESTIGATOR SYMPOSIUM

Each year RAMPS conducts a Young Investigators Symposium named in honor of Salvatore Vacirca, a past RAMPS President. Young investigators are encouraged to submit abstracts for the competition. The speaker judged to have made the best presentation is provided funding to attend an AAMP national meeting. Recent winners are

1st Place	2nd Place	3rd Place	Year
Michael Liu*	Louise Fanchon*	Xin Wang ²	2014
